FOR COMMUNITY COLLEGES
Deliver, Track, Report

More than 200 community colleges rely on the Docufide by Parchment platform to send transcripts electronically.

These schools represent a growing trend of higher learning institutions choosing to replace manual and paper-based processes, and bring transcript services completely online.

With Docufide, you save administrators from needing to manually process requests. You also easily meet the increasing demand from postsecondary institutions and other organizations preferring to receive education credentials electronically.

docufidesender™

Deliver, Track, Report

Docufide Sender, a key component of the Docufide platform, enables you to send, track, and report on transcripts through a secure, online exchange network. It dramatically improves your existing processes such as implementing a single workflow to send transcripts, either completing the delivery by mail or in the recipient's preferred electronic format.

Choose Docufide Sender to:

- Deliver, track, and report on sent transcripts and related admissions documents through a secure online exchange environment.

- Analyze student data and trends to help students better prepare for additional college or career progression.

- Save time and money by replacing slow, wasteful, paper-based processes.

- Improve student experience with easy transcript request and support services.

- Automate workflows by integrating seamlessly with your Student Information System (SIS), Enterprise Content Management (ECM), or Customer Relationship Management (CRM) system.

"After evaluating other options, we concluded that Docufide will allow us to better meet our student data needs while also saving us money. Our staff will be able to spend less time processing transcripts and more time helping our students, which is our main goal."
